:31	4. Fence	There it is -- the Moon. Fascinating! We cats call it "MEEOON". That means: "Big white thing up in the dark that changes shapes over many nights and sometimes isn't there at all and sometimes shows up during the day." <chuckle> It's a lot easier to say "MEEOON". You try it: "MEEOON!"	6

1:00	5. Larry introducing himself	My name's Larry -- Larry Cat. At least, that's what my humans call me. Like a lot of other cats, I watch the sky -- and I've wondered about the Moon for a long time. What is it really?	15

2:33	14. Larry with one eye open	We cats study humans, you know. It might look like we're asleep, and sometimes we are. But, a lot of the time, we're watching you.	1 2 3 4
2:46	15. People with telescope	Anyway, I watched them while they talked about the Moon. They'd go on and on about what shape it was. They talked a lot about something called "craters". They would spend hours looking through this thing called a "telescope", counting "craters". I could never figure that out.
